Asian Media Information and Communication Centre

The Asian Media Information and Communication Centre (AMIC) is a non-profit NGO with the mission of spearheading the development of media and communication expertise in Asia within the broad framework of economic, social, and cultural progress.

It exists to encourage ethical and social responsibility of the media to support democratic access and participation in media development and production, and to provide opportunities for empowerment of disadvantaged sectors in the media environment.

It performs these roles on many fronts:
- As a research centre it examines critical issues in the media and communication sector and their implications for development.
- As a resource centre it gathers and disseminates knowledge about communication and its effects in Asia.
- By conducting training and professional consultations it is active in capacity building for the media and their users.
Chairman’s Message

This past year has been a year of transition for AMIC.

The year started with a new face at the helm of the Secretariat after Acting Secretary-General, Ms Maria ‘Chi-Chi’ Mercedes F. Robles, left us at the end of 2012 to return to her university in the Philippines. Chi-Chi, who was also an AMIC Board member, gave sterling service in guiding and consolidating the organisation throughout her year. Her proactive stewardship laid the groundwork for Associate Professor Martin Hadlow, who joined us in January 2013, to carry forward the role of Acting Secretary-General.

By the end of 2013, despite the pressures of reduced funding, AMIC’s finances were in surplus, thus ensuring that, whatever the future, AMIC could go forward with confidence as a viable and relevant regional entity. To secure long-term sustainability, the Board had agreed to an approach whereby three components, namely membership subscriptions, journals and publications, and project and conference activities take an equal share in providing AMIC with its funding base.

A major highlight of the year was our annual conference held in Yogyakarta, Indonesia, with local host Universitas Gadjah Mada, a leading Indonesian university. We could not have chosen a more hospitable, generous and able partner. Three ministers were featured in the programme. The conference attracted more than 300 paper presenters, making the event one of our most successful.

The Board of Directors met during the Yogyakarta conference; AMIC’s Annual General Meeting (AGM) attracted a solid turn-out of members and gave endorsements to AMIC’s audited accounts and on-going plans and strategies.

Another key event was RadioAsia 2013, held this year in Hanoi, Vietnam. RadioAsia was initiated by AMIC almost a decade ago and, in collaboration with our main partner, the Asia-Pacific Broadcasting Union (ABU), it has become an important activity for radio professionals from the region and beyond. This year’s host body was the Voice of Vietnam, the country’s national radio service.

During the year, our long-time and generous host, the Wee Kim Wee School of Communication and Information (WKWSCI) at the Nanyang Technological University (NTU), gave notice that it was keen to negotiate a new relationship with AMIC. We have long enjoyed considerable financial and in-kind support from the WKWSCI, including office facilities and the core funding of major positions within the AMIC Secretariat. As the WKWSCI is, itself, undergoing a renewal of its focus and modus operandi, it goes without saying that AMIC is also part of the School’s spotlight. AMIC’s Board of Management has been in regular contact with management of the School.

Our membership numbers continue to grow at a steady and satisfactory pace. We reinforced our search for new ways of engaging with both individuals and institutions throughout the region. AMIC’s strength lies in the commitment of its members to the shared ideals and goals. AMIC has continued to collaborate with major global agencies, such as UNESCO, like-minded international NGOs, such as the International Association for Media and Communication Research (IAMCR), and with prospective new national partners in several countries.

We had a number of personnel changes during the year, both at Secretariat and Board level. Within the Secretariat, AMIC’s Head of Publications and Research, Associate Professor Rachel Khan, returned to the University of the Philippines in Manila towards the latter part of the year. During her time with AMIC, Rachel had guided the 2013 conference activities and many of our books and journal publications.

At the Board level, we bid farewell to the Deputy Chair, Ms Robles (Philippines), Dr. Robert Seward (Japan), Dr. Mohammad Zin bin Nordin (Malaysia) and Professor Gerardo (Gerry) Ramirez Josue (Philippines). Their efforts have been hugely appreciated and we thank them for their service and commitment to AMIC.

Taking their place, we welcomed to the new Board Mr. Ramon Tuazon (Philippines), Dr. Pirongrong Ramasoota Rananand (Thailand), Professor Zhengrong Hu (China) and Professor Syed Arabi Idid (Malaysia).

This year also marked my final year as AMIC Chairman and I have stepped aside to be replaced by Mr. Arun Mahizhnan of Singapore. Arun has long experience with AMIC and, with your support, will, I know, ensure that the organisation goes on to greater heights.

As is the tradition at AMIC, I will remain as Chairman d’Honneur and, thus, contribute my services and input as a member of the Board. My time as Chairman has been exciting and rewarding, and I have valued the friendship and assistance I have received from the AMIC Board, members, the Secretariat, the WKWSCI and a range of international partners. I look forward to seeing you all again at AMIC conferences and workshops and to remaining committed to the aims and objectives that have made AMIC a world-leader in Asian communications.

Yours sincerely,

PUBLICATIONS

Evolving Asian Culture Gateways: the Korean Wave & Beyond
Edited by: Su Jung Kim, Kalinga Seneviratne and Madanmohan Rao
ISBN: 9789814136198

Since the late 1990s, an increasing number of Korean television dramas, movies, pop songs and their associated celebrities have gained immense popularity in East and Southeast Asian countries. News media and trade magazines have recognized the rise of Korean popular culture in Asia by dubbing it the “Korean wave” or Hallyu. Yet about a decade ago, Korean popular culture did not have such export capacity, and was not even critically acclaimed by scholars. Thus, this book is aimed at finding a way to represent Korea’s pop-culture in the new framework of the Asian media eco-system. Although Asia’s pop culture has been marginalized by the Western mainstream for generations, the new environment can help Asia find a way to represent their culture and to ride on the “Rising Asia” bandwagon.

A “New” Media Asia
After 40 years, the flagship magazine-journal of AMIC takes on a new look and feel while maintaining its core of peer-reviewed original research articles. With a new editorial team headed by Prof. Cherian George of NTU-WKWSCI, the revamped publication now includes additional sections that highlight new ideas, trends and concerns. The new sections include feature and opinion articles as well as interviews, book reviews and case studies. With these changes, we hope to continue to expand the profile of our contributors and readers to include researchers, educators, students, practitioners and policy-makers who are interested in engaging with media and communication inquiry at various points on the cycle of knowledge creation.

Social Media and the Asian Experience: Exploring its Influence and Reach
The book discusses both the emerging theories related to social media and highlights its growing influence and reach. Social media such as Facebook, Twitter and YouTube are now invading the territory once dominated by traditional media. Authors from key Asian countries explore specific applications of new media in the field of information and communication even as they document case studies that exhibit their potential in the industry of mass media. The book will be scheduled to be released towards the last quarter of 2014.

Asian Journal of Communication
Six issues of the Asian Journal of Communication, Volume 23, No 1 to 6 were published in 2013.

AMIC e-newsletter
The newsletter goes out monthly to AMIC members and other parties interested in the media and AMIC activities. The Newsletter features updates on activities, conferences, workshops, research projects and publications implemented by AMIC and its partners.
CONFERENCES

22nd International Annual Conference, Yogyakarta, Indonesia
The 2013 conference was organised in partnership with the Department of Communication, Faculty of Social and Political Sciences, Universitas Gadjah Mada. It was held from July 4–7, 2013 at the Hotel Meliá Purosani, Yogyakarta, Indonesia. The theme of the conference was ‘Transformational Communication and the New Asia’. During the four-day conference, some 300 delegates were exposed to thought-provoking presentations and papers from media experts, industry practitioners and academics who provided retrospective and introspective views on Asian media and communication, besides looking at the prospects for the media scene in the coming years. The discussions and papers presented in the conference were also the seedbed for the development of a textbook on the same theme, with special focus on the impact of social media.

There were three (3) plenary sessions on key issues, namely:
• Transformation of Indonesian Media:
  Challenges and Opportunities
• Development Communication and the New Asia: still a role?
• New Media, Old Media Ethics

In addition, 39 parallel sessions in various sub-streams were conducted. Of these three were conducted in Bahasa for local participants on topics specific to Indonesia.

2013 AMIC Asian Communication Award
Dr. M. Alwi Dahlan, Emeritus Professor in Communication at the University of Indonesia, Jakarta, received the AMIC Asian Communication Award for “his outstanding contribution to communication research and education in Indonesia and internationally”.

The second awardee, Mr. Jakob Oetama, President and CEO of Kompas Gramedia, one of Indonesia’s largest media conglomerates, was conferred the Award for “his outstanding contribution to excellence in print journalism and media development in Indonesia”.

Both Awardees received their plaques from AMIC’s Chairman, Professor Ang Peng Hwa. As Mr. Jakob Oetama was in ill health, his award was accepted on his behalf by Mr. Ninok Lekssono, Senior Editor of Kompas.

Radio Asia 2013

AMIC co-organised RadioAsia 2013 with the Asia-Pacific Broadcasting Union (ABU) and the Voice of Vietnam with the theme, “Radio and Social Media: Where to Next?”

In its ninth year, the conference brought together leading radio broadcasters, practitioners, communication specialists, policy makers, and academics from across the Asia-Pacific and beyond. Some 40 eminent speakers shared their expertise in various aspects of radio and communications with 200 delegates. The conference was held from 29–31 July 2013 at the Melia Hanoi Hotel, Vietnam. AMIC took charge of the conference programme as well as two plenary sessions, namely, “Community Radio and Social Change: A Voice for the Voiceless?” and “Broadcast Media and the Citizen Journalist”.

AMIC Secretary-General Martin Hadlow served as master of ceremonies and chaired the opening ceremonies and plenary session. AMIC Research and Publication Head Rachel Khan was a moderator for a workshop on “Radio and Emergency situations: Broadcaster’s Vital Role” and spoke in the plenary on citizen journalism.

AMIC welcomed a new member to the Board of Directors, Prof Dato’ Sri Dr Syed Arabi Bin Syed Abdullah (second from right) at the AMIC Annual General Meeting held during the Annual Conference. Other board members (L–R): are Dr Joseph Man Chan, The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Mr Martin Hadlow, AMIC, Mr Arun Mahizhnan, Institute of Policy Studies, NUS, Prof Ang Peng Hwa, Wee Kim Wee School of Communication & Information, NTU, Singapore, and Dr Binod Agrawal, Director, Taleem Research Foundation, India.

Prof Ang Peng Hwa, Chairman, AMIC presented a token of appreciation to Dr Erwan Agus Purwanto (right), Dean of the Faculty of Social and Political Sciences, Universitas Gadjah Mada, Yogyakarta. The Faculty was local host for the Annual Conference.
CAPACITY BUILDING

UN World Press Freedom Day
The UN’s World Press Freedom Day (3rd May, 2013) was marked in Singapore with a workshop jointly organised by AMIC and the Asia Journalism Fellowship (AJF) programme of the Wee Kim Wee School of Communication and Information. The one-day event was held in the WAN-IFRA Newsplex Centre at the School and brought together more than 20 regional journalists who were studying at the NTU under the AJF programme. In his opening remarks, the AMIC Secretary-General, Martin Hadlow, spoke of the importance of press freedom and also outlined his previous work with UNESCO in promoting freedom of expression in Afghanistan, Kazakhstan and elsewhere. Mr. Paul Broom, the Director of Political Affairs at the British High Commission in Singapore, was guest speaker and also heard from the AJF journalists about the media situation in many parts of the Asia-Pacific region. He commended journalists worldwide in their efforts to maintain press freedom. The AJF Fellows briefed the workshop on the situation of press freedom in their respective countries, while other issues discussed included the rights of journalists, impunity and objective reporting. Professor Cherian George, Director of the AJF programme, brought the workshop to a close by giving his insights on journalists and the press in Singapore and he also provided comparisons around the region.

Media Development Conference for Myanmar Journalists
Organised by UNESCO, the conference (27th-30th May) was held in Yangon and featured academics and practitioners from across Asia. The key aim of the conference was to orient practitioners on the newly established free media regulatory environment in Myanmar. AMIC’s Media Asia Editor-in-Chief, Professor Cherian George, was invited to speak about Journalism Education and Ethics, while AMIC’s Research and Publications Head, Rachel Khan, served as rapporteur in two sessions.

ASEAN 2015 for working journalists
AMIC and both the EU Centre in Singapore and the Konrad Adenauer Foundation hosted a workshop (13th-14th December) to engage journalists and foreign correspondents in South-East Asia on the subject of Reporting ASEAN and Regional Community Building. The workshop featured ASEAN and other regional experts from different backgrounds and sectors who briefed journalists on some of the challenges faced by ASEAN in constructing an ASEAN Community by 2015. The workshop also looked at the role of external partners and discussed the experiences of other regions, such as Europe, in developing regional entities.
PARTICIPATION IN INTERNATIONAL EVENTS

- The Secretary-General, Martin Hadlow was keynote speaker during the 2nd annual Philippine Communication Research Conference with the theme: “Communication in a Glocalized World” held at the University of the Philippines, Diliman, Quezon City on February 14-16, 2013.

- The Secretary-General spoke on a panel with the theme of “Attracting and Retaining Talents” at the first International Conference on Broadcast Training held in Kuala Lumpur from 5 to 26 February, 2013. The conference was organized by the Asia-Pacific Institute for Broadcasting Development (AIBD) and Instititut Penerangan dan Penerangan Tun Abdul Razak (IPPTAR).

- The Secretary-General was a lead speaker at a panel, entitled “The Changing Landscape in Asian Media”, at the Pinoy Media Congress that was organized by the Philippines Association of Communication Educators (PACE), in Manila.

- Rachel Khan was plenary speaker in the ASEAN conference on “Exploring Media Ethics and Self-Regulation” in Bangkok, Thailand, 18-19 October 2013, organised by the Thai Telecommunication and Broadcast Commission. She also spoke on another panel, “Media Ethics: The Philippine scenario”.

- Martin Hadlow was invited as a guest speaker at the Asian Media Summit 2013, held at Manado, Sulawesi, Indonesia. The annual event was organized by the Asia-Pacific Institute for Broadcasting Development (AIBD) and hosted by the Ministry of Communication and Information Technology, Indonesia.

- AMIC was a media partner of the Digital Journalism World 2013 event held in Singapore from 7 to 8 October. The conference highlighted new approaches to journalism as the profession embraced new technologies and innovations in the digital sphere, while leaving old paradigms behind. AMIC’s Research and Publications Manager, Rachel Khan attended the inaugural event.

- AMIC was selected as a regional partner for UNESCO’s Global Forum on Media and Gender Conference. The event was held from 2 to 4 December, 2013 in Bangkok.

Martin Hadlow spoke on a panel, “Attracting and Retaining Talents” at the International Conference on Broadcast Training held in Kuala Lumpur. In his speech, he made reference to whether public service and Government broadcasting agencies continue to follow ‘traditional’ patterns of recruitment for programme formats.

Martin Hadlow speaking on “The Changing Landscape in Asian Media” at the Pinoy Media Congress. He also shared his views on a range of topics relating to development communication and the future of journalism education in a follow-up Q&A session with students.
VISITORS

Two groups from Indonesian media and communication schools visited the AMIC office as part of their study tour programme. Professor Andi Faisal Bakti, Dean of the Faculty of Communication of the Universitas Pancasila in Jakarta, Indonesia, led a group of faculty and students in a courtesy call on AMIC’s new Acting Secretary-General Martin Hadlow on 17 January 2013. They enjoyed a tour of AMIC’s facilities and a briefing on AMIC’s work.

The second group was led by Dr Hafied Cangara, Director of the Institute for Research Communication Services, Hasanuddin University, Makassar, Sulawesi, Indonesia. His group also comprised faculty and students.

Led by AMIC member and Universiti Teknologi MARA (UiTM) Faculty, Associate Professor Dr Kiranjit Kaur, the group visited AMIC to learn more about AMIC’s work and its publications activities. The UiTM students also visited the NTU Media Library and the WAN-IFRA Newsplex. Both facilities are located within the Wee Kim Wee School of Communication and Information at the NTU, AMIC’s host organization.
At the end of 31 Dec 2013, AMIC has a total of 270 members of which 68 are Lifetime, 179 Individual and 23 Institutional members. The year ended on a high note with an increase of Lifetime members from 59 to 68.

DOCUMENTATION

AMIC staff continue to enjoy full services, resources and facilities at the Asian Communication Resource Centre (ACRC)*, which is one of the seven libraries within the NTU Library System. The continuing donation of publications by AMIC enhanced the growing collection of books, electronic journals and databases acquired by the NTU Library. Many of the AMIC publications are now stored in the digital repository DR-NTU (http://dr.ntu.edu.sg/) which is open to world-wide access. An overview of library resources, services and facilities can be found at the ACRC Blog (http://blogs.ntu.edu.sg/library/acrc) and the NTU Library Homepage (http://www.ntu.edu.sg/library).

*The ACRC is being renamed by the NTU as the Communication and Information Library.
